Constantly mentioned when the topic of up-and-coming hip hop artists is discussed ,Los Angeles native Bangloose continues his rise to the top as each single released showcases his accomplished production skills and infectious hip hop lyrical flow.

Rapidly building a fan base originating from digital downloads, Myspace, club performances, numerous features on prominent websites and radio spins across the country, it is no surprise that this rising hip hop star is one of the top independent hip hop / rap artists in the industry.

Following the success of Bangloose's singles "Gray Goose" and "Rated R" on numerous urban hip hop radio stations across the western region and online, Bangloose has been busy in the studio with two equally outstanding projects: "Sonically Correct", hosted by DJ Nik Bean and the much anticipated solo album "Rats & Roaches".

His craftsmanship as a solo hip hop artist was first showcased by opening for the legendary westcoast hip hop / rap artist Suga Free on his regional tour. Shortly thereafter he gained the attention of the masses by headlining sold out shows in venues all across Southern California. With a rapidly growing fan base that sees no limits, Bangloose's promising music career is destined to solidify him as one of hip hop's heavyweights.

Bangloose's proven radio popularity has shown the industry that he is capable of bringing radio hits as well as street bangers to the table. With his latest singles, the people will inevitably keep their ears to the streets and anticipate his every move.
