West coast rapper Mac Dre from Vallejo, CA, died early Monday morning after the car he was riding in was attack by a gunman.

According to police in Kansas City, Mo., two men in a van were headed north on the highway around 4:30 a.m. when another vehicle pulled up and an occupant opened fire. The driver of the van crossed over into the southbound lanes of Highway 71 and went down into a deep ravine. Mac Dre was the passenger in the van.

Authorities said Mac Dre; who's real name was Andre Hick, died of gunshot wounds.

The driver escaped from the van and crawled up the ravine and walked to a convenience store at 85th Street for help. The driver told police he did not see the shooter because he ducked when the shooting started.
