

Los Lonely Boys to Drop 'Sacred' July 18th

Written by Robert ID2771
Friday, 23 June 2006 03:15 -

Two years since their multi-platinum album debut and a Grammy Award for the smash hit "Heaven", the Los Lonely Boys are back with a new soul-driven album, appropriately entitled 'Sacred', which will arrive in stores everywhere July 18, 2006.

With sweetly distinctive harmonies backed by pulsating Latin guitars, 'Sacred' is filled with catchy, uplifting chords packed into 13 songs, all co-written by the Texican brothers- Henry, JoJo, and Ringo Garzo- that cover a new range of subject matter with an unblistering new confidence.

The Los Lonely Boys' first single, "Diamonds", is heavily influenced by classic big band guitars and instrumentation that inspire a passionate courage to follow the song of your soul. The Los Lonely Boys have also added new instruments like the button accordion to their mix, evident in the hook-filled, fiery song "My Way".

Other highlights on 'Sacred' include "I Never Met A Woman," the Boys' most soulful ballad to date, the impossibly catchy lament of "Roses," and "Outlaws," a song which features two distinguished guest vocalists: LLBs mentor Willie Nelson, and their father, Enrique Garza Sr. Mr. Garza - a talented Tejano and country musician in his own right - taught his sons to play their instruments, and enlisted them to be his backing band from an early age. His appearance on Sacred brings the first family of Texican rock n' roll full circle.

'Sacred' finds the band writing and playing with a new confidence, stretching their subject matter and arrangements on the album's thirteen songs, all of which they wrote or co-wrote. Sacred opens with the killer one-two punch of "Diamonds," the album's anthemic first single, and "My Way," a defiant guitar shuffle that reminds listeners why Guitar World magazine named Henry Garza the Breakthrough Artist of the Year in a 2005 cover story. "My Way" also finds LLBs adding a horn section to their signature mix for the first time. Elsewhere on the album, they add other new colors to their arrangements including button accordion, Hammond B3 and Fender Rhodes, Wurlitzer electric piano and Henry's virtuosic Harmonica playing.

Pre-order the 'Special Edition' now. HERE .

Los Lonely Boys to Drop 'Sacred' July 18th

Written by Robert ID2771
Friday, 23 June 2006 03:15 -

This deluxe version of 'Sacred' will be available with a bonus DVD entitled "Brotherhood." A short film directed by acclaimed photographer/filmmaker Danny Clinch (Bruce Springsteen, Audioslave) contains a candid behind the scenes look, interview with the boys and exclusive acoustic performances of: 'My Loneliness', 'One More Day', 'Oye Mamacita', & 'I'm A Lonely Boy'. You'll get a free LLB poster with your order!

You can also order the regular version of the CD HERE and still get the free poster!

And don't forget to register to win tickets and backstage passes to the Los Lonely Boys August 25th, 2006 concert in Murphy's California from CRNLive.com and ThugLifeArmy.com.

You can register to win tickets HERE .

Los Lonely Boys are the three Garza brothers: Henry on guitar, Jojo on bass, and Ringo on drums.

For more information on the Los Lonely Boys visit their web sites at

<http://www.loslonelyboys.org>

<http://www.myspace.com/loslonelyboys> (You can hear 'Diamonds' and 'Heaven' here.)

Los Lonely Boys 'Sacred' Track Listing

Los Lonely Boys to Drop 'Sacred' July 18th

Written by Robert ID2771

Friday, 23 June 2006 03:15 -

1. My Way
2. Orale
3. Diamonds
4. Oye Mamacita
5. I Never Met A Woman
6. Roses
7. Texican Style
8. One More Day
9. Memories
10. My Loneliness
11. Outlaws
12. Home

Los Lonely Boys to Drop 'Sacred' July 18th

Written by Robert ID2771
Friday, 23 June 2006 03:15 -

13. Living My Life