

Hip Hop Lives thru KRS-ONE Marley Marl

Written by Robert ID3541

Thursday, 05 April 2007 04:07 -

---

Legendary Hip Hop artist/philosopher KRS-ONE, aka Lawrence Krisna Parker, is heating up the streets with the buzz and anticipation of his new album titled 'Hip Hop Lives'. The album will be released May 22nd, and is Executive Produced by Marley Marl.

"Hip Hop Lives" (title track) and "Kill A Rapper," lead the album project as two very relevant songs for the Hip Hop community right now. "Kill A Rapper" touches on the murders of popular rappers and begs the question of why Rap murders go unresolved by the police? "Hip Hop Lives" focuses upon Hip Hop's immortality and reminds us of the ways in which Hip Hop renews itself annually. For 20 years KRS ONE and Marley Marl have been known for producing classic Rap material; Hip Hop Lives is clearly another classic.

KRS-ONE aka "the Teacha" is one of the most influential voices in the history of Hip Hop. His reputation as a live performer is second to none, as many have recognized him as "The Greatest Live MC of All Time."

KRS-ONE (Knowledge Reigns Supreme Over Nearly Everyone) is one of the most outspoken leaders of Hip Hop culture, politics and spirituality. Having lectured at over 500 universities and colleges over a 15-year period, KRS-ONE has been honored by the United Nations, VH-1, Billboard Magazine, the Riverside Church in New York, Harvard University, Yale University, Lincoln University, Princeton University, Oxford University and countless other institutions and grass roots organizations.

KRS-ONE has also published three classic Hip Hop's books; "The Science of Rap" (1995), "Ruminations" (2003) and "The Gospel of Hip-hop" (2007), and has founded three Hip Hop activist organizations; the Stop The Violence Movement (1989), Human Education Against Lies (1991) and the Temple of Hip-hop (1996), in addition to releasing fifteen classic rap albums.

Marley Marl is one of Hip Hop's first (and finest) super-producers. As founder of one of Hip Hop's first recording companies Cold Chillin' Records, Marley Marl assembled a roster filled with some of the finest Hip Hop talent in New York: MC Shan, Big Daddy Kane, Biz Markie, Roxanne Shanté, Kool G Rap & DJ Polo, and Masta Ace. His production work for those and many other artists generally boasted a bright, booming, and robust sound that -- along with his ear for a catchy sample -- helped move street-level Hip Hop's sonic blueprint into more accessible territory. Most important, though, were his skills as a beatmaker; Marley Marl was

Hip Hop Lives thru KRS-ONE Marley Marl

Written by Robert ID3541

Thursday, 05 April 2007 04:07 -

---

among the first to mine James Brown records for grooves and also learned how to craft his own drum loops through sampling, which decreased Hip Hop's reliance on tinny-sounding drum machines.

KRS-ONE and Marley Marl met in 1986 during the height of the “answer record” era in Rap music. After Roxanne Shante answered UTFO and MC Shan answered L.L.Cool J, KRS-ONE and the late DJ Scott La Rock answered MC Shan’s recording “Queensbridge” with the recording “South Bronx”. Since 1986 KRS-ONE and Marley Marl have both been on a mission to preserve Hip Hop’s original sound. This collaboration comes at a time when Hip Hop’s future seems to be threatened by over-commercialized rap performances and cultural disunity. KRS-ONE and Marley Marl intend to change all of that.

KRS-ONE’s performances and lectures can be seen and heard regularly all over the world. For more information visit: www.thetempleofhiphop.org. Marley Marl DJs on Power 105 in New York every Saturday night from midnight to 2 AM.

For more info on Marley Marl go to: <http://www.myspace.com/djmarleymarl>