Police released a picture of a car that may have been used in the murder of California rap artist Andre Hicks, also known as Mac Dre.

The vehicle is a 2003 Infiniti G36. The car was found in the 5600 block of East 29th Street. The car had no license plates on it.

Investigators said that the car had evidence inside linking it to the shooting, but they declined to specify what that evidence was.

Hicks was a passenger in a van that was headed north on Highway 71 near 85th Street when someone in a car pulled up alongside the vehicle and opened fire. The driver of the van crossed over into the southbound lanes of the highway before crashing into a ravine.

Police said Hicks died from a bullet wound.

Hicks had performed at a concert in Kansas City, Kan., on Friday night and stayed in the area during the weekend.

Police ask anyone with information on who may have been driving the Infiniti to call the TIPS Hotline at (816) 474-TIPS.
