After the extraordinary success of their 2003 hit "21 Questions" on rap artist 50 Cent's debut hip-hop album, Get Rich Or Die Tryin, Midi Mafia (the team of Bruce Wayne and Dirty Swift) went on to create for other hip-hop and rap artists the likes of Nelly, Young Buck, Talib Kweli, Miri Ben-Ari, Mack 10 and R&B's Lil Mo.

Midi Mafia is continually proving that their diverse production stylings bring the best to Hip Hop, R&B and Pop music. Midi Mafia has also taken the world of video games by storm, with original scoring for SCEA's NBA "06, MLB "06 and NBA "07.

As one of the most sought-after production teams in the industry today, Midi Mafia is taking their hit-making abilities to the next level in the Summer of 2006. Their new song for hip-hop artist, rapper Lloyd Banks, "Make You Move," will be featured on Banks' upcoming Rotten Apple LP, and they are in the studio putting the final touches on Fania's sophomore album. Other upcoming work includes tracks for Sam Scarfo, Penelope Jones, Flipsyde and their own artist, Deemi.

While the Midi Mafia movement is under way, creating breaking songs for various new artists with major labels, Bruce Wayne and Dirty Swift have embarked upon their own label situation, Family Ties Entertainment. They recently signed their first artist, Deemi, in association with Dangerous LLC, to a formidable distribution and marketing deal with Atlantic Records. Deemi's song "Hoodz Princess" was featured on talkshow diva Wendy Williams' 2005 compilation project, Wendy Brings The Heat Vol I. Deemi's first single will drop this Fall, and her solo debut, Soundtrack Of My Life, will be released early 2007.
