Confirmed as contributing to the upcoming album from hip hop icon Tupac (2Pac) Shakur's 'Pac's Life' are hip hop and rap heavy weights Ludacris, Snoop Dogg, Keyshia Cole, T.I., Ashanti, Young Buck, Lil Scrappy, Carl Thomas, Outlawz, Bone Thugs-N-Harmony, Big Syke, Papoose, with productions from hip hop producers LT Hutton, Sha Money XL, Swizz Beatz and more.

The 6th posthumously released studio album from the late hip hop icon Tupac Shakur (2Pac) has an official street release date of November 21, 2006.

"I say it every time, that Tupac left us the blueprints to follow, and without the amazing contributions made by everyone of these artists, producers, musicians, everyone, I do not know how I would get this great task accomplished," says Afeni Shakur, his mother, the album's executive producer (along with Tom Whalley) and founder of the Tupac Amaru Shakur Foundation, "I believe whole-heartedly that Tupac sends the people he wants to these projects."
