According to Nielsen SoundScan Tupac's posthumous "Loyal to the Game" (Amaru/Interscope), falls to No. 13 (219,000 copies in it's second week).

Rapper Eminem was the top-seller last week as "Encore" returns to the top of The Billboard 200 this week after a month-long absence. (430,000 copies).

After last week's 1 to 12 fall, Ludacris' "Red Light District" (Disturbing Tha Peace/Def Jam South) also regains its top 10 spot with a gain to No. 10. (258,000 copies).

Mannie Fresh has The Billboard 200's top debut with his solo debut, "The Mind of Mannie Fresh" (Cash Money/Universal), which enters at No. 59 (70,000 units).

It seems the die hard Tupac fans have now bought the album for their collections and now it is up to the new comers to pick up the sales. This Eminem produced album has caused a 'rumble' among a lot of loyal Tupac fans. Only time will tell if the Tupac 'Loyal to the Game' album will rebound in sales. It seems a lot of fans are having a hard time accepting it.
