According to our confidential source, Atlanta based hip hop rap artist T.I., aka Clifford Joseph Harris, Jr., was offered a 15 year prison term plea agreement by prosecuting attorney David E. Nahmias in his current weapons charges.

In October of 07 hip hop artist T.I. was arrested on federal gun charges just hours before he was scheduled to perform at the BET Hip Hop Awards by federal authorities.

The hip hop star was arrested in a federal sting after his bodyguard-turned-informant (rat), delivered three machine guns and two silencers to the hip-hop star, according to a Justice Department statement.

This sentence offered to the hip hop star T.I. may be reduced. The hip hop artists' lawyers are in negotiation presently.
