

Controversial Hip Hop MC NYOIL Takes Issue with BET

Written by Robert ID4401
Friday, 20 June 2008 00:16 -

Controversial hip hop MC NYOIL (pronounced NY Oil) from Staten Island NY is not known for ducking controversy as anyone who has seen his videos or witnessed his tirades against the exploitation of black culture can attest. His track titled "Y'all Should All Get Lynched" to unprecedented fan fare in October 2006, decries the behavior of the rappers who "sell out" the black community with lines like "All you fake a gangsters y'all should all get lynched, because Malcolm X died for you to act like this and Martin Luther King died for you to act like this, and this the best you can come up with?" has become a cult favorite on the internet.

Never one to hold his tongue, hip hop MC N.Y.Oil now takes issue with B.E.T. (Black Entertainment Television) slow walking the airing of his "Lynched" video; the very version that THEY produced.

In this exclusive web clip, the controversial hip hop MC NYOIL questions the power structure at B.E.T., how the video came to be, their prioritization of broadcast content and if they're having cold feet airing the very video that THEY commissioned to be produced!

WATCH IT NOW!

And to see the video that's causing all the commotion:

<http://www.hiphopcrack.com/viewVideo.hhc?videoid=1152>

For further information, please visit:

Controversial Hip Hop MC NYOIL Takes Issue with BET

Written by Robert ID4401
Friday, 20 June 2008 00:16 -

www.crackspace.com/nyoil

www.myspace.com/nyoil

www.babygrande.com