If you are familiar with Hip Hop Press, a press release site for hip hop related press information, the launch of their new service – Hip Hop PR Wire will be of great interest to you. And if you are not a user of this service or a visitor to it, you need to be.

Hip Hop Press is launching a new press release site next week. Hip Hop PR Wire launches next week, and the press release submission process will be changing. So if you are a user of Hip Hop Press this new site information will be important for you.

Hip Hop PR Wire is launching Tuesday, November 18th. On that date, all new Hip Hop Press release submissions and posting will move to Hip Hop PR Wire.

A press release submission form will be part of the new site and all press releases must be submitted there in order to be published. You may still send such releases and are requested to continue sending other promotional material to:

hiphoppres(at)netweed(dot)com

Currently you can send questions about the new service to that address as well.

Hip Hop PR Wire is doing their best to make the process simple and straightforward.

Plus, Hip Hop PR Wire will be adding R&B press releases and a related Urban Arts & Fashion release section for all you folks that have been shut out up till now.

Hip Hop PR Wire is a joint effort of Clyde Smith and Jasmine Crowe
