

Sean Bell Type Police Murder Takes Place in Inglewood CA

Written by Davey D ID4353
Monday, 12 May 2008 08:48 -

So folks who don't know, here's what's going on.. Police terrorist committed a Sean Bell type murder on mother's day here in LA. They shot up a car filled with unarmed Black men after supposedly hearing gun-shots. None of the passengers had a gun, committed a crime or shot anyone. The car was so riddled with bullets it look like swiss cheese. They showed the car on today's morning newscasts.

During the press conference, the police tried to say that the driver of the car sped at them an almost ran them over so they unloaded on the car. However, one person was arrested and let go with no charges. When asked about this puzzling action, the Inglewood police spokesperson said that they let the people in the car go but they reserve the right to re arrest them based upon the results of the pending investigation.

So what we have here is the following; The police are investigating themselves. And they can arrest these unarmed men, one of whom was killed after they conclude-Translation: After they get their lies in order and stack up the evidence they can come after these men and thus cover their own negligent asses.

The other point to keep in mind as you read this story is the contention that the car tried to run the officers over. Well we do know that there were gunshots in the area and that when that happens people usually run for cover.

Is it possible that the driver of this car heard those gunshots the police claimed to have heard and the driver panicked and sped to get out the area? Has any of those men and women in blue given that some thought?

This latest incident comes at the heels of a swarm of Philadelphia police beating down 3 men and the acquittal of NYPD officers who shot Sean Bell 50 times...last year police in Inglewood were caught on tape beating up an unarmed 15 year old. Not sure what more can be said or done at this point, but it can't be business as usual.

Davey D

Sean Bell Type Police Murder Takes Place in Inglewood CA

Written by Davey D ID4353
Monday, 12 May 2008 08:48 -

Inglewood police fatally shoot passenger, wound driver.

The officers reportedly believed they were under fire. A 19-year-old L.A. man is killed. Shots were heard but no one is charged.

By Ari B. Bloomekatz, Julie Cart and Hector Becerra, Los Angeles Times Staff Writers

Believing they were under fire, Inglewood police officers Sunday shot and killed a passenger in an approaching car and wounded the driver, but no weapons were found and no one has been charged, authorities said.

The passenger was identified as 19-year-old Michael Byoune of Los Angeles, who died at the scene from gunshot wounds to the torso, said Los Angeles County coroner's investigator Jerry McKibben.

The officers were in their patrol car near Crenshaw Boulevard and 8th Avenue about 1:40 a.m. when they heard gunfire and pursued a man who was running, said Inglewood Police Sgt. Hector Ramirez.

The man jumped into a slow-moving car in the 3000 block of Manchester Boulevard, and the officers heard more shots and felt something hit their cruiser, Ramirez said.

The officers then fired several shots as the vehicle came toward them, according to police. The driver is in stable condition with a leg wound, and a third man in the car was not injured. He was taken into custody, questioned and released, police said.

Read full article and see video at http://www.latimes.com/news/la-me-shooting12-2008may12_0,3320317.story?track=rss

Sean Bell Type Police Murder Takes Place in Inglewood CA

Written by Davey D ID4353
Monday, 12 May 2008 08:48 -
