

Hip Hop History Via Rap Artist Master P

Written by Robert ID3684

Tuesday, 29 May 2007 21:43 -

---

Hip hop entrepreneur and rap artist Master P announced that the release date of the first father-son hip-hop album titled "Hip-Hop History" will be September 4, 2007.

The date was not chosen to compete with hip hop artist 50 cent aka Curtis Jackson's delayed release, but rather to create balance in the marketplace and give kids a freedom of choice.

Master P will be mixing it up with Chamillionaire, Silkk The Shocker and other hip hop artists and rappers that want to continue making street music but without the explicit lyrics. "Hip-Hop History" will be a collaboration between Master P and his son, Romeo, and will be produced by platinum producer Mike Diesel, Chip, and Hood Noise.

"This record isn't about making money; it's about providing a choice, changing, and hopefully saving lives," says the hip hop entrepreneur. All proceeds from this record will go towards a foundation and scholarships for underprivileged kids that want to further their education by going to college.

"Guaranteed Success," Master P's book on how people can achieve and maintain financial success, will also hit bookstores on the same date.

Master P is challenging to the media to devote their time and airwaves to the positive side of hip-hop. It would make a difference. "Before we condemn others for making a change, we should take a look in the mirror and ask ourselves, "what are we doing? Are we a part of the problem, or are we a part of the solution?" said Master P. "Take A Stand Records, the movement."

From the song "Let The Kids Grow"

I heart you flipped stacks

Hip Hop History Via Rap Artist Master P

Written by Robert ID3684

Tuesday, 29 May 2007 21:43 -

---

Yeah I did that.

My brother's dead; cousins, friends

Can't get them back.

And since I changed,

I guess they think I got sauce.

I guess you hard when you're dead

Or locked behind bars.

Let the kids grow,

Let the kids dream.