A good female rap artist is a rare find. Even rarer is a female hip-hop rapper who has the range and ability to also sing R&B and span other genres as well; and perform extremely well in each.

There is a female artist of this quality who is out of Florida. Her rap tracks are strong flows that will surprise and grab you. Her R&B skill is also very grabbing. Her vocal ability is in a range that should not be overlooked. Her name is Shonie, and she is one artist that hip-hop and R&B should not overlook.

Shonie has been singing from the tender age of 8; singing duets with her mother in the church in her native home town of the Bronx, New York. Her mother moved the family, which consist of 3 brothers and Shonie, Shonie being the youngest of the group; to Florida.

Nominated for "Best Artist Of The Year" for Miami Florida's "Hip-Hop" awards of the year; Shonie has already created a buzz on the streets and on radio, with songs such as "Get Slap", "Back U Up" featuring Pitt Bull, and "Up in da Club" featuring Infamous.

Shonie's diverse musical style has made her one of Florida's best all around hip-hop / rap and R&B performers.

She has written, produced and played the keyboard on songs as "Thinking Of You" and "I Don't Care".

Shonie also had full rotation spins on "WAGH magic 98.3 with her first hit single "Thinking Of You". She also carries a worldwide fan base including many fans in Africa and Japan.

Shonie is a multi talented artist as she can hit you from any genre be it hip-hop, rap R&B, rock and salsa just to name a few.
