

Rap Hip-Hop Web Site Adds Urban Culture Blogs

Written by Site Admin. ID2234
Sunday, 01 January 2006 08:26 -

ThugLifeArmy.com, hip-hop and rap music news site, along with there other network site TLA-PROnline.com, for unsigned artists, are adding to their growing network with the introduction of the newest addition to the ThugLifeArmy.com site – ‘Tha Spot’.

Tha Spot is a collaboration platform which includes: forums for discussions, blogs: which offer a voice to the voiceless, content management, and photo gallery. Members are encouraged to participate and to share their opinions on the many topics offered. Beyond hip-hop culture and rap music, serious social issues and cultural topics are also investigated with many view points and sources of information.

ThugLifeArmy.com is seeking the ‘voiceless’ for owners of their own blogs.

Each owner of their blog will have total control of it and it will also be available for syndication thru RSS and or Atom feed. Blog owners can pass the feed address along to others who may be interested in your blog.

ThugLifeArmy.com is encouraging all to investigate ‘Tha Spot’ at - <http://thaspot.thuglifearmy.com/> - and if you are interested in having a blog please email administrator@thuglifearmy.com

Although ThugLifeArmy.com will not accept all blogs, they are interested in blog authors who can contribute to the culture of hip-hop and to those who can give news and opinions on urban culture struggles.

So if you have something to say and can keep your blog active with new posts and or opinions ThugLifeArmy.com’s ‘Tha Spot’ is looking forward to hearing from you.

Covering not only hip-hop and rap, ThugLifeArmy.com is hoping to attract those with an urban culture view also. Many in hip-hop culture know there is a real struggle going on in the real world and ThugLifeArmy.com would like some intelligent people to have their own blogs to keep their visitors informed.

Rap Hip-Hop Web Site Adds Urban Culture Blogs

Written by Site Admin. ID2234
Sunday, 01 January 2006 08:26 -

Although the site is not 'live' yet, ThugLifeArmy.com asks that you please check it out and register if you feel lead to do so.

They are looking forward to a great 2006 and with the addition of 'Tha Spot', ThugLifeArmy.com hopes that they can become a total news and information site for hip-hop, rap and urban culture issues.

Grass roots activist, hip-hop and rap music fans, and artists – everyone is welcome to get their own blog and hopefully join in all that 'Tha Spot' has to offer.

If you are interested in a blog you will need to register and then email them at administrator@thuglifearmy.com

. Let them know your user name and what kind of blog you want to have.

Please take time to visit <http://thaspot.thuglifearmy.com/> .

Tha Spot should be 'Live' in a few days, so this is an opportunity to get in on the 'ground floor' and help set the direction of 'Tha Spot' and have your opinions and news be seen.

Contact administrator@thuglifearmy.com for more information or visit - <http://thaspot.thuglifearmy.com/> or <http://www.thuglifearmy.com>

Rap Hip-Hop Web Site Adds Urban Culture Blogs

Written by Site Admin. ID2234
Sunday, 01 January 2006 08:26 -
