

Hip-Hop Happiness - Yes Hailie There is a Santa

Written by Robert ID2180

Thursday, 08 December 2005 09:27 -

Detroit's hip-hop rapper Eminem is showing that 'beef' in hip-hop can really exist only on wax and you don't have to take everything so literally, because things change over time – even in hip-hop culture.

He and his wife, who the rap artist has dissed on wax and publicly many times, have apparently "reconciled and are probably going to remarry."

Both Em and his ex wife, Kim Mathers, have gone thru rehab and now apparently they are to be one big happy family again.

It seems that rehab has opened Eminem's eyes and as to the rumors of retirement after this album release he said "I'm at a point in my life right now where I feel like I don't know where my career is going," he said. "This is the reason that we called "Curtain Call," because this could be the final thing. We don't know."

Well it is good to see that things seem to be working out for Eminem and Kim, at least for the moment. Their daughter Hailie, who turns 10 on Christmas, will apparently get a two parent home for Christmas.