

Word has it that all music from Compton hip hop rap artist The Game will no longer be played on Radio One's numerous stations across the country in response to the rapper's alleged attack on radio personality Zxulu of Washington D.C.'s WKYS, which is owned by Radio One.

Sources tell EUR that the jock suffered broken ribs and a black eye, among other injuries, following an alleged assault by both The Game and his manager after the MC's guest appearance at the station. As previously reported, a spokesman with the detectives bureau of the Prince George's County police said, "There was an incident and he is among the people identified. There is an ongoing investigation."

While it is unclear just what started the incident, a source says it had something to do with an earpiece.

Source

*See our article HERE for the first reports and details of this "beat down".