After the success of 2003's classic "Rip The Jacker" rap artist Canibus has decided to go a second round with Babygrande Records.

Canibus will hit the streets on May 10th with his sixth album entitled "Hip Hop for sale". This album will be produced entirely by Virginia based producer Nottz who has worked with everyone from rapper 50 Cent to Cassidy.

Look for this album to be on many people's top ten list of 2005 by years end. As of right now no track list is available and few details have been revealed about this release. However, Babygrande's CEO Chuck Wilson has said "Canibus and Nottz have made an incredible record together."

If that's not enough to fill your Canibus thirst just wait a month later when Canibus will give you "Mind Control". Less than a month after "Hip Hop for sale" drops Canibus will re-up again on June 21st for his seventh release. Sources say that this album will display a side of Canibus previously unseen. This album features Death Row records inmate rap artist Kurupt and will be exclusively produced by Mark Sparks. Be sure to pick up this Gladiator Records release and check out the first single "mind control".
