

Female Rap Artist Ms Cherry For Download

Written by Robert ID1457
Sunday, 29 May 2005 10:08 -

INTENT MediaWorks, the world's largest distributor of download entertainment media, will be distributing MusicDish Network female hip-hop rap artist Ms. Cherry's music video for her single "It's Whatever" on all the major peer-to-peer networks like KaZaa and eDonkey.

INTENT MediaWorks has worked with artists such as the "Internet Rock Star" Scooter Scudieri and New York based musician Jillian Ann who received over 50 million searches in 3 quarters from file sharing networks.

"It's Whatever" is a battle rap about real beef in a club, a fight. Laila Ali, the pro fighting daughter of "The Greatest" Mohamed Ali, used the single as her theme song and entrance music for a recent bout, a fight where she opened up a Costco sized can of whup-ass on her sad sack opponent. Besides having her song played to thousands of fight fans, Ms. Cherry appeared at the Urban Network Conference in Palm Springs, California, which she followed with a sixteen city promotional tour for the about Rhythm and Streets.

The crunk new single "It's Whatever", with its banging beat and Ms. Cherry's feisty lyrics, has clubs jumping all over the south. Confident in her ability to hold her own as an emcee, this multi-talented beauty isn't just another female relying on her sexuality to sell records; Ms. Cherry is the total package.

Fans of crunk can download her music video and TrustyFiles P2P application at <http://www.musicdish.net/P2P/MsCherry.html>

Check out the Ms.Cherry web site HERE