Amazon.com have posted up the album cover for the upcoming Tupac album "Loyal To The Game"

They do not show a track list yet. It seems Interscope and Amaru feel that a track list is not important because it is a Tupac album; so either way it will sell.

The fact that many fans are already dis-appointed with what is known about the production of this album, would make a tracklist helpful.

Early ordering is available. It is interesting to note that neither Amaru or Interscope's web site's even mention this release. The advertising for this album is slim if any.

When and if a track list becomes available we will let you know.
