one of the most inspirational and dynamic speakers of the Hip Hop generation. After hearing her speak you will be inspired to join the movement for social justice!" Having worked with a who's who in the hip hop industry she has seen the need for our communities to come together to create the social change that is necessary in order for Black and Latino's to unite, celebrate our similarities and respect our differences.

As more and more people in American, particularly youth of color begin to feel the effects of an expanding United States military and prison industrial complex, Hip Hoppers throughout the United States are resisting. African-American and Latino youth are coming together like they did so when creating the culture of Hip Hop. This lecture/interactive workshop will show the historical legacy of African-American and Latino unity, trace its history throughout the 60's, 70's, 80's, 90's and finally urges our two similar communities to join forces to bring about change in this country. Through this workshop and presentation participants will be able to discuss their views, identify community issues and effectively use Hip Hop culture as a tool for uniting African-American and Latino's "This decade will be a defining one in the history of the Hip Hop Generation, African American and Latino's must unite, Hip Hop has always been a tool of resistance, by speaking truth to power we continue this tradition."
